The Roxbury International Film Festival is two weeks away, but to whet your appetite, there's a screening of "Off and Running." This award-winning documentary by director/producer Nicole Opper is about Brooklyn teenager, Avery Klein-Cloud, an adopted African-American female of white Jewish lesbian parents. Curious about her heritage, Klein-Cloud (pictured) contacts her birth mother and runs into some identity obstacles that threaten to derail her dream of running college track. Klein-Cloud and the film's composer, Daniel Bernard Roumain, will participate in a Q&A. Presented by the Roxbury International Film Festival in conjunction with the Boston Jewish Film Festival. 7 p.m. $9.75. Coolidge Corner Theatre, 290 Harvard Street, Brookline. 617-734-2500. www.coolidge.org ■
